Priyanka's journey to the Indian Navy was not an easy one. She grew up in a small town in Uttar Pradesh, and she was the first in her family to attend college. She excelled in her studies, and she was always drawn to the military. After graduating from college, she applied to the Indian Navy and was accepted into the Officer Training Academy.

Priyanka's training at the Officer Training Academy was rigorous, but she excelled in all of her studies. She was a natural leader, and she quickly rose to the top of her class. After graduating from the Officer Training Academy, Priyanka was assigned to the Indian Navy's Marine Commando Force.

The Marine Commando Force is the Indian Navy's elite special operations unit. It is responsible for conducting a variety of missions, including counterterrorism, hostage rescue, and maritime security. Priyanka quickly proved herself to be a valuable member of the team, and she was soon promoted to Lieutenant Commander.

In 2016, Priyanka was deployed to the Gulf of Aden to take part in an anti-piracy mission. While on patrol, her ship was attacked by a group of pirates. Priyanka and her team fought bravely, and they were able to repel the attack. For her bravery, Priyanka was awarded the Indian Navy's Shaurya Chakra, one of the highest military decorations in India.
